In the event of a horizontal collaboration, such information concerns the fee received by the issuing intermediary who has a direct relationship with the undertaking.

Assessment of the policyholder's requests and needs (art. 58 of IVASS Regulation no. 40/2018)

Distributors shall be required to propose contracts adequate to meet the policyholder's or the insured's insurance and pension needs.

For this purpose, before policyholders sign a proposal or, when not envisaged, an insurance contract, they shall obtain from those policyholders any information useful to assess their demands and needs.

Where advice is given on the basis of a fair and personal analysis, the intermediary shall give that advice on the basis of an analysis of a sufficiently large number of contracts and providers available on the market to enable it to make a personalised recommendation, in accordance with professional criteria, regarding which insurance contract would best meet the policyholder's needs.

Intermediaries registered under section B, authorised by an insurance undertaking to the collection of premiums and/or payment of the amounts owed to policyholders or other persons entitled, based on a specific provision contained in the agreement concluded with the same undertaking, or with an intermediary registered under section A, ratified by the principal undertaking of the latter intermediary, must deposit the premiums paid by customers in a separate bank or post-office account in the name of the undertaking or of the broker itself in its capacity as such.

The money shall be deposited immediately and anyhow not later than ten days after payment.

The money may be deposited net of the commissions due to the intermediary in case this possibility is allowed by the principal undertakings.

The holder of the separate account may also be the intermediary expressly as such, and the funds in this account represent independent assets from those of the intermediary.
